Judge John Davis' Daughter to Be the Diplomat's Wife.

Mrs. Stanford Will Spent the Winter Here-Season of Fancy Fairs Is Opening.

No engagement of those announced this fall has created so much interest as the news just received from Paris that Sentor de Souza Rosa and Miss Davis, daughter of Judge John Davis, are betrothed.

This is a union of May and December,
Miss Davis being just out of her teens, while the distinguished representative of Portugal in France is nearing the half-century limit. It seems strange that Senhor de Sonza Rosa should have withstood the blandishments of the many beautiful and talented women in this country and have gone to Paris only to meet his fate in a young girl just out of school. Miss Davis, whose handsome mother was for so many years a conspicuous figure in society here, is extremely attractive and quite pretty.

The engagement is announced of Miss Dora Waldo, of New-York, to Lettiar Baron von Grave, of Wallingford, Conn., son of Frederick Wilhelm Mortimer Baron von esire on the part of public officials and thers to secure an early hearing in the United States Supreme Court of the case brought by the Government against her husband's estate. The importance of the result, which directly affects the Lehand Stanford, jr., University, of California, is such as to make its prompt hearing by the court a matter of more than ordinary interest.

The senson of fancy fairs has opened in the North by a "bazzar" held at the handsome home of Gov. Morton at Khinehandsome neme of our Advisor at Kame-beck-on-the-Hudsen. The Misses Morton have been most active in their pursuit of a benevolent intention, and an artistic loan exhibition, including many relies of colonial and other periods, is the result. Washington will seen begin a series of these affairs, so dreaded by the young men of society, who vow they are "reck-less extravagance" to the victim who, lured by the charms of his fair one in trim gown, cap and apron, "drops in for a minute." "All is fair in love and—charity," as a bright young woman quoted to her protesting swain, not long ago, when dis-cussing plans for a "fea" soon to come off.
